INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILLING OUT CWD SUBMISSION FORM

In “Required Fields” box in upper left (1):

1. Under Submitter, fill out your name and contact information as the hunter
2. Choose how you want to receive your test results from ISU’s Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory
3. Leave Third Party Billing blank

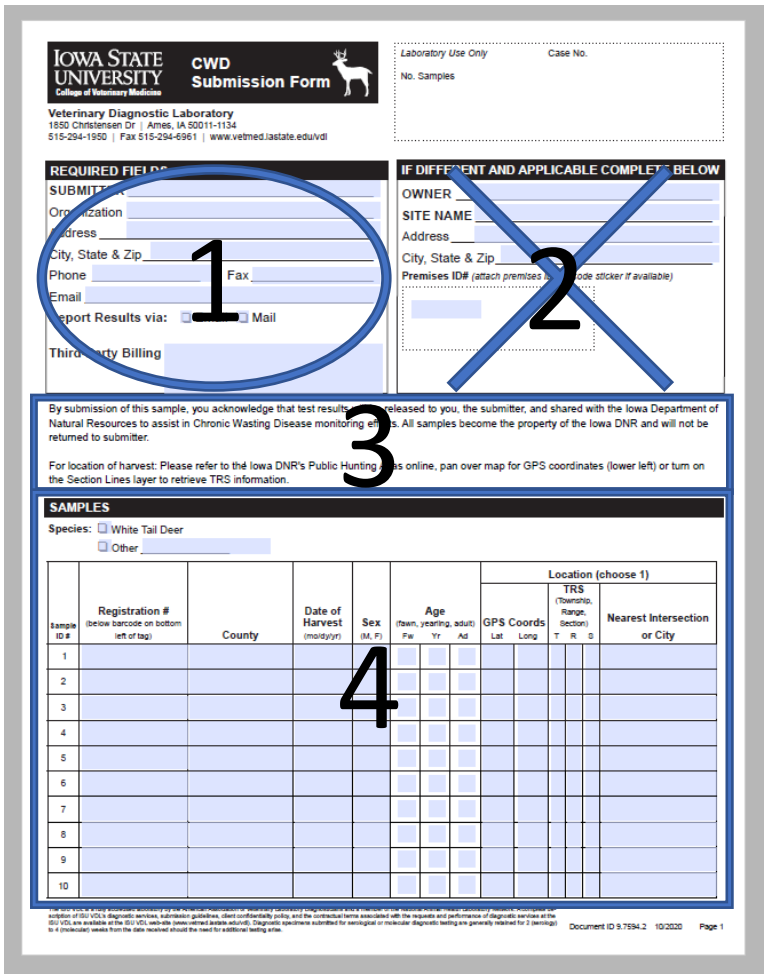
Ignore box in the upper right (2).

Read text at middle of document (3).

Fill out harvest information for each deer being tested (4). Choose just one option for reporting location information. Use additional forms as needed for >10 samples.

*If testing cervid species other than white-tailed deer, check “Other” at the top and write in species name.

Retain “B” lymph node and keep in freezer until test results are known.



You will receive an invoice for $25.00 from ISU’s Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory once samples have been tested. Results will be mailed or emailed according to preference.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommend disposing of meat from CWD-positive animals. If your deer tests positive, DNR field staff will reach out and can assist you in properly disposing of meat and carcass parts. Deer that do not test positive will be reported as “Not Detected.”

NOTE: When possible, keep meat separated in freezer until status is known. The “B” lymph node can then be discarded in normal trash.
