

GEORGE WYTH STATE PARK

3659 Wyth Rd, Waterloo, IA 50703

Welcome to George Wyth State Park, an “urban wildlife sanctuary” located between Waterloo and Cedar Falls in Black Hawk County. Visitors can “get away” from the busy metropolitan area and take advantage of a variety of outdoor activities in a very natural setting.

PARK AMMENITIES/POINTS OF INTEREST/THINGS TO DO

George Wyth has four lakes each with its own niche. Brinker Lake (formerly East Lake) is 180 acres and open for power boating after 9 a.m. George Wyth Lake is 75 acres and no-wake with a universally accessible fishing pier. The beach is also located on George Wyth Lake and wind surfing is a popular activity year round. Fisher Lake is a 40-acre natural lake and an oxbow to the Cedar River which borders the park. Alice Wyth Lake is 60 acres and only allows electric motors. Anglers can try their luck for crappie, bluegill, walleye, northern, bass and channel catfish in any of the lakes. There is a boat ramp at each of the lakes and there are three universally accessible jetties around George Wyth Lake.

George Wyth is a popular place for camping most of the year. With several sites, (electric - 20, 30, & 50 amp and non-electric) it is busy every weekend. There are modern showers, rest rooms and a dump station. There is also access to the Cedar Valley Trails right from the campground. There are four open shelters throughout the park that can be reserved for a family picnic or special occasion. At the back of the park is our popular day-use lodge, ideal for family reunions, weddings and receptions. The shelters and lodge can be reserved through the state park reservation system.

The park has more than 3 miles of paved trails in the park that connects with the Cedar Valley Trail system which has more than 100 miles of paved trails in the Cedar River valley. You can walk, run, bike and inline skate. There are also 5 miles of hiking trails. Official soft trails are being developed in partnership with the Cedar Valley Association for Soft Trails (CVAST). There are approximately 10 miles of groomed, unpaved trails specifically designated for mountain biking, off-trail running, bird watching and hiking; and these trails will provide easier access to parts of the lakes. The Cedar Valley Paddler’s Trail joins the four lakes and Cedar River and two lakes at the Hartman Reserve Nature Center with portages. This trail is a 10-mile loop with 2 miles of portage and 8 miles of water.

George Wyth also has a bird blind located at the back of the park. Birders have seen more than 200 species of birds throughout the year, with many rare birds spotted. Other wildlife can also be seen through the blind.
