

Lead Acid Batteries

Did you know that Lead Acid Batteries are a Household Hazardous Material?

- Iowa law prohibits disposal of lead acid batteries in a landfill.
 - Iowa law requires a retailer who sells lead acid batteries to accept your old lead acid battery for recycling free of charge when you purchase a new battery.
 - Lead is harmful to the environment and your health.
-

RECYCLE your Lead Acid Battery HERE

Contact your local Solid Waste Agency or Regional Collection Center to learn more about Household Hazardous Materials or visit www.SafeSmartSolutions.org

Consumer Education Brochures available upon request.

Change Our Ways. Change Our World.